Lightning strikes vehicle; driver 'lucky to be alive'

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Diamondhead resident Lana Howard says, "By all rights I should not be here talking to you now." This was after having her car struck by lightning on Interstate 10 Monday morning.

"It was about 7:15 a.m. I had just gotten off from work at the Emergency Room of Hancock Medical Center and was on my way home. I never once dreamed I would be back at the hospital spending the day myself as a patient.

"I was traveling about 50 m.p.h., as I was slowing down for the Diamondhead intersection, when a lightning bolt hit my car. The engine died on impact, and only because of the momentum of the vehicle was I able to move it to the shoulder of the road.

"As I stopped, I could smell something burning and I tried to open the door on the driver's side to no avail. It seemed only my headlights were still working. I left them on, moved to the passenger side and grabbed my umbrella as it was raining."

"It was then I was really frightened when I viewed the damage to my vehicle. The tires on the driver's side were flat. A hole was through the top of my door, paint was peeled from the roof, all of this just inches from my face where I was sitting as the lightning hit.

"I know other motorists must

Pass to ban strip clubs

BY ED LEPOMA
Pass Christian is the latest coastal community attempting to curb the threat of any strip club opening in town.

Mayor Billy McDonald has asked city attorney Malcolm Jones to draft an ordinance banning such adult entertainment in establishments that serve light wine and beer within the city limits.

According to Jones, the State Tax Commission, through the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division, already bans strip or adult entertainment clubs, where alcoholic beverages are served.

McDonald said no adult entertainment or strip clubs now exist within Pass Christian's city limits, but he wanted an ordinance to prevent the

Comprehensive plan source of frustration

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City Council members Tuesday added two more hours to a five-year quest for a comprehensive plan, wrangling over key issues and drawing their own ideas on colored maps.

Just as the session started, at-large council member James Rutherford expressed exasperation with his colleagues for failing to come to terms with a plan -- and walked out of the meeting.

"I think we're starting to look foolish," said Rutherford, saying no action has been taken other than hiring two different consulting firms since 1991 and countless hours of consideration.

Five future land use maps have been offered for consideration, he said, and none adopted. "I think it's time we move and accept some plan," he said. "...this project needs to come to an end. I'll see ya'll later."

With that, Rutherford left the meeting.

Two hours later, the four remaining council members did appear headed toward some compromise and concessions that could result in adoption of a land use plan. But they took no votes and set no further meeting on the matter.

The issue dominating most of the meeting was the boundary line for a proposed resort district. Consultants, the city administration, and city attorney John Scafide all recommend that the district include all the property that was annexed by the city in 1992: that now developed by Casino Magic, and adjoining tracts have been proposed for casino and commercial development.

Faced with loud, persistent objections from some residents to further casino development in the city, several council members are yearning to back off from pre-annexation agreements that promised casinos would be permitted by the city in the area.

Scafide and Mayor Eddie Favre repeatedly have urged council to stick with the original agreements, which run with the property at issue. The pacts were made to induce annexation of the Casino Magic

Detention center deadline nears

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County supervisors are facing a June deadline to show some progress towards building a temporary or permanent juvenile detention center.

If they don't, the county could have to return a $111,000 grant awarded last August by the state's Division of Public Safety.

In the meantime, only in extreme cases are juveniles being sent to Pearl River County. Most are charged with various crimes, then returned to their parents or guardians.

With the clock ticking, supervisors met in a workshop session Monday with Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, his chief deputy Gerald Nacaise, juvenile investigator Kenneth Hurt, Youth Court Judge Ann Williamson, and Jeff Loftus of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, the agency that landed the grant for the county.

Loftus told supervisors that the state "is pretty flexible" and won't demand a return of the money "as long as the county is showing some reasonable progress in trying to open a facility here."

He said the grant money has

Bay licensing tests today

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis officials will test contractor skills today under a new local licensing system.

Testing for plumbers, electricians, refrigeration and air conditioning workers, and general contractors will be tested at 9 a.m. at City Hall Annex.

Most of those expected to show up have never been licensed in Bay St. Louis, said Building Inspector Bill Carriagee. He expects 15 to 20 workers to take the test this week.

Port to remove tug

BY RICHARD MEEK

An eyesore that poses a threat to marine traffic in the ship channel at Port Bienville Industrial Park may soon be removed.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is currently accepting bids for removal of a tug boat that is nearly three-quarters submerged lying in a canal near the entrance to the ship channel. Also, the Commission is seeking to have an abandoned crane and a sunken cement barge removed from the industrial park's waters.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of
KAREN FAYARD SOTAK

Mrs. Marilyn, Gary, Kara, Garrett, family and close friends, I would like for you to know that our community shares in your pain and your grief. Our community has suffered a great loss.

Karen was such a beautiful, young, vibrant woman. She lit up a room with her presence. She smiled, laughed, and loved to talk. She never ever met a stranger. She touched so many lives, and for this we are all blessed.

Kara and Garrett, your mommie has left us with so many gifts. She has showed us how to love.

If God is handing out awards in Heaven, we know your mommie will need a wheelbarrow to load them all up. We all know she would receive an award for the devotion she had for her family. Her love for them was unmeasurable. Her husband and children were her life. She adored them.

Karen would receive an award for the big heart she had. She was such a loving and caring person. She shared her love wherever she went and to everyone she met.

Karen would receive an award for being so helpful to others. She reached out to those in need and always put others first.

I know we all wonder why some things have to happen. I know we will never understand or know the reasons while we are here on this earth. Only God knows this plan for us.

Karen's face is now the face of an angel. Let us all be thankful that God has given us Karen for 34 years to enjoy. Her spirit and memory will live on in us forever.

God Bless You All,

ST. ANN AND ST. JOHN NEWS

Thoughts for meditation:
 Take time to be holy, speak off with the Lord, abide in Him always, and feed on His Word. Make friends of God's children, help those who are weak, forgetting in nothing, His blessing to seek.

—William Longstaff
 Father, You are with me constantly — help me to find special times to rest in Your presence. Daily I need to take time to be holy. Amen.

Before anything else existed, there was Christ, with God. He has always been alive and is himself God. He created everything there is — nothing exists that He didn't make.

—John 1:1-3
 You, Lord Jesus, are the Supreme Authority; my soul praises You. Amen.

If I can stop one heart from breaking, I shall not live in vain.

Emily Dickinson
 Father, give me Your heart and use me to reach out to someone in need. To some, this season brings much loneliness and pain. Lead me to the ones who need to experience the Joy of Your companionship. Amen.

Don't let others spoil your faith and joy with their philosophies, their wrong and shallow answers built on men's thoughts and ideas, instead of what Christ has said.

Boudin to lead delegation at hurricane conference

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin leads a delegation who will attend a National Hurricane Conference scheduled April 2-5 in Orlando, Fla.

Boudin said more than 1,000 delegates are expected from across the nation, and will attend seminars presented by weather forecasters and hurricane experts.

"Everybody who needs to know knows anything about hurricane forecasting, preparedness and evacuation procedures is expected to attend," he said.

The Civil Defense Director said he was pleased that three of the county's newly elected supervisors would accompany him to the important conference.

Scheduled to attend are ward of Supervisors President Philip Moran, District 1 Supervisor Lyone "Jeep" Ladner, and District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour.

Chancery Court Clerk Tim Kellar will also attend, and Waveland will be represented by Fire Chief David Garcia, Boudin said.

Taylor seeks plant investigation

Congressman Gene Taylor has called for the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, to conduct an audit and investigation of activities at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant in Hancock County.

Taylor has requested GAO look into the costs of maintaining the facility, if MSAAP is being appropriately maintained and if there is still a need for the Army to keep the plant.

Taylor also asked GAO to determine whether any former Department of Defense officials have taken employment with firms that have contracts or privatization agreements with the munitions industry.

Taylor has met with officials from GAO's National Security and International Affairs Division who will handle the audit and investigation at MSAAP.

Said Taylor, "We can't expect this nation's $270 billion annual operating deficit to disappear if each member from one of the nation's 435 congressional districts takes the attitude that no cuts would be made within his or her own district. I'm going to take the lead to turn this $600-700 million facility from a taxtaker to a taxpayer."

Taylor pointed out to GAO officials that during the past three years, the Army has paid Mason Technologies Inc. over $16 million to "babysit" the plant. MTI has received these funds to maintain the plant and to market it for use by the private sector employers.

"I've looked around South Mississippi, and this is the worst case of wasteful spending by the federal government that I've seen," said Taylor. "It's obvious that MTI's efforts to market the facility have not worked."

Taylor has also written and talked with Secretary of the Army Togo West about the plant. During recent hearings before the National Security Committee, of which Taylor is a member, Taylor told Secretary West that the Army should "use it, or let it go."

Taylor said the plant could be turned over to Hancock County for industrial development or perhaps NASA or the Navy could put the plant to better use.

Bay apartment plans approved

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Plans for a four-apartment building on North Second Street were last Wednesday by the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission recommended property line variances, and construction of a residence on a commercially-zoned lot, to accommodate the plans offered by Maurice Colly for 301 North Second Street.

Colly plans to construct a building at the corner of North Second and St. George Street, with three apartments on the first floor and a personal residence on the second floor.

In other matters, the commission briefly discussed designating a zoning map area for a "Medical Office District," classification that was created several years ago. City Planner Les Fillingame said while the designation was adopted by City Council, it was never officially placed as a zone on the zoning map.

City officials want to create a horseshoe-shaped district for medical offices along the perimeter of Hancock Medical Center.

Fillingame said interest in building new medical offices is growing, and the city needs to establish the district on the zoning map to avert "fragmented" development.

The area in question, along Drinkwater Boulevard and Green Meadow Road, would be rezoned from residential and commercial designations to the new medical district classification.

The commission is expected to discuss the matter further at its next meeting, and make a recommendation to City Council for rezoning.

Today marks the annual Spring Pilgrimage for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. This will be the 49th Spring Pilgrimage, sponsored by the Mississippi Council of Garden Clubs.

Festivities begin at 10 a.m. at the Bay-Waveland Garden Center, 114 Leonhard Avenue, Bay St. Louis. There will be a flower show 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and maps and brochures for the local pilgrimage will be available.

Bay St. Louis homes on the morning tour, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., include the home of Jack and Melinda Richard, 1320 Dunbar Ave.; the home of Jim and Teri Wyly, 216 N. Beach; the Kate Lobrano Cottage, 108 Cue Street; and the home of Dr. and Mrs. Swan Ward, 982 S. Beach Blvd.

Today's afternoon tours of Waveland homes from 1 to 4 include Waveland City Hall, 301 Coleman Avenue; the home of Bryon and Yvonne Griffith, 127 Sarah's Lane; the home of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Crane, 426 S. Beach Boulevard; and two gardens can be viewed as one—enter at 706 South Beach. Walking shoes are suggested. The garden of Chappy and Starr Chapman is located 706 South Beach Boulevard, and the garden of Mr. Richard Grayson, 712 South Beach Boulevard.

Just a bit of history. I can well remember the summer I worked in the garden planted by the late Dr. Walter Hava.

If I am not mistaken, it was around 1948 while I was still in school. I had the chore of planting and gathering the seeds of some of those native irises bordering the pond. You know that was a long time ago.

At that time Dr. Hava's yard and pond were really a thing of beauty.

I hope there will be a large turnout for today's pilgrimage.

One of the unique things about our local pilgrimage, there is no fee to view the homes on display.

I understand we are among very few communities who do not charge to view the homes and gardens.

I hope to see you at the pilgrimage today.

Saturday is the big day for Special Olympics track and field competition at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

This will be the 14th time for Area III Special Olympics to be sponsored at the space center.

A new wrinkle this year will be a Carrying of the Torch run by Hancock County Lawmen Association members on Saturday from the courthouse in Bay St. Louis to the space center for the opening of the Olympics.

There will be all types of events, such as wheelchair races, assisted walks, shot put, standing long jump, long jump, softball throw, several dashes and a tennis ball throw. Events are to get underway at 9:30 a.m.

In addition to the special events there will be all types of entertainments that special day.

Many residents from the area have volunteered to help with the Special Olympics, and it is good to see such support from our community.

I wish all of the athletes the best Saturday, and I am sure they will all have a good time.

You would be surprised at the number of folks who read my few lines in Sunday's column about the evergreen oaks losing their leaves.

Some are even worried the cold weather may have killed their trees.

Since some of our oaks are over 300 years old, I think they have probably been through colder winters before.

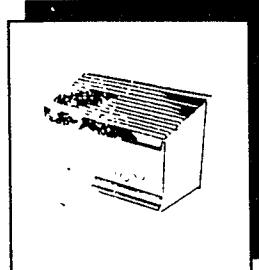

Anyway, I hope the cold did not kill any of our beautiful oaks.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Welfare just like feeding birds

Dear Editor:

Congress and the President are making lots of waves about welfare these days, but to see it in a different light, buy a bird feeder, install in your yard and keep it full of feed for several months.

The first few days will see a few birds investigate and begin to eat daily. Then, in a week or so many more will arrive, and by the end of two to three months they will be causing you to refill the feeder almost daily, about two pounds each time.

Then allow the food to run out and watch the birds become bewildered. They don't know what to do. Perhaps a few have forgotten how to find feed in the wild, and if you don't refill the feeder they may starve. What to do?

Well, my fellow citizens, that's exactly what government welfare has done to millions of our citizens who live on the dole for years. They don't know how or where to look for a job and probably forgot how to work, just like the birds.

What to do? We can't let them starve, and they won't work because welfare will "pay" them better. Now that's a dilemma Washington doesn't know how to solve, although many ideas are forthcoming on how to change welfare.

Perhaps YOU have the answer. Write your Senator as I'm sure he'll be very happy to listen to any and all ideas.

Regards,
Royce P. Kaupp

Parent hostess impressed with student actions

Dear Editor:

We always hear how bad the teenagers are and how the times have changed. Well, let me tell you a story. I have been the parent hostess for homecoming preparations the past four years for the 1996 seniors of Hancock High School.

Since they were freshmen I have told everyone how special these young people are and what an impact they would have on our future.

Homecoming was filled with lots of work as they rushed to complete their displays. They worked together ripping out and making changes. On two or three separate occasions paint fights broke out followed by laughter of total joy.

It was 2:45 a.m. before everyone could get ready for bed. Every bed was filled, the floors were a maze of bodies, and my hall was like a mine field as there were rows of girls everywhere.

The quiet lasted 30 seconds when one young lady said, "I don't want to go to sleep, let's play a game." The response from her classmates was, "Shut up."

Silence was once again interrupted by "Let's play a game." This time there was a loud "shut up" from almost everyone.

I lay in my bed laughing at these wonderful young people, but my laughter was turned to tears when a young man proclaimed his feelings.

"This will probably be this group's last night together, and I think we need to end it with a prayer." Another voice asked, "Who will lead us?" And another young man said, "I will."

These children prayed for their futures and each other, ending with the Our Father. I cried and smiled, as I knew God was by their side on this special night.

The county, parents and churches of the area need to commend this wonderful group of young people. I look forward to our future with them as our leaders.

Thanks for letting me be part of your high school years.

Cochran hails panel's agreement on new farm bill

Senator Thad Cochran says an agreement on a new farm bill is "good news for Mississippi farmers."

Cochran's comments came after a House-Senate Agriculture conference committee reached agreement on a new farm bill.

"This is an important bill for our farmers in Mississippi and the Mid-South," he said. The senator, a member of the conference panel, said provisions on major commodities such as cotton, rice and soybeans were similar to those in the original Senate-passed version.

Senator Cochran also stated that conservation and wetlands sections of the conference report were "farmer friendly" and would enhance future development of wildlife habitat.

The omnibus farm bill provides for a seven-year program covering the major commodities, including reducing farm supports in an effort to help balance the federal budget.

The bill also covers programs ranging from nutrition, farm exports, agricultural research and development, to forestry incentives.

Cochran said, "This bill meets the needs of farmers and consumers in a fiscally responsible manner, while continuing the government's commitment to providing stability and an orderly transition to a market economy in agriculture."

The senator said he hoped the President, who earlier vetoed the farm bill, would support this version after House and Senate passage, expected soon this session.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Miss. House makes fool of itself once again

Every time the Mississippi House takes the role of our self-appointed censor, it not only makes a fool of itself, but the rest of us as well.

The House's latest instance of collective stupidity was its rescinding a previous commendation of Natchez native Glen Ballard for recently winning a top Grammy Award for producing and writing the music for the rock album Jagged Little Pill.

Several days after adopting the commendatory resolution, someone (including the resolution sponsor) discovered there were a couple of naughty words in one song in the album, a piece called You Oughtta Know. So the collective wisdom was to withdraw the praise it had given for his Grammy honor.

Of course, it didn't occur to the lawmakers that Ballard had not written the lyrics to the song, nor sung them. The lyricist was Alanis Morissette.

Ballard's Grammy Award came for having the Album of the Year, in all music categories for his production and writing the music for the entire album. His recognition is more prestigious because his work was competing against all music from country and western to operetta.

The world would have little known or cared that the Mississippi House had handed out its kudo for Ballard, since the Legislature routinely commends everybody from beauty queens to football teams.

But when the Mississippi lawmakers "unrecognized" Ballard's high honor for artistry, it made a national story out of a non-story and immediately revived old images of Mississippi as a backward state, peopled by snuff-dipping snopeses, governed by a bunch of claghorns. That's the image a lot of Mississippians have desperately been trying to shake off for several decades.

Apart from the honor his peers in the music world bestowed upon him, Glen Ballard the person is someone special. It is uncanny that his grandfather was the late John R. Junkin of Natchez, once the revered speaker of this very same Mississippi House which now dishonors his grandson.

Ballard, 42, is a summa cum laude graduate of Old Miss, editor of the university's annual, and is married to another Ole Miss graduate. Even while he has made it big in the music world, based in Los Angeles, Ballard has maintained loyalty to his friends and family in Natchez and often helps to open doors to Mississippians out in the movie capital.

His mother, Sally, who went out to Hollywood to the Grammys Awards, says that the Mississippi House's action won't affect her son's career, "but it has hurt his family and friends who know what kind of person he is." She added: "I thought the Legislature was honoring him for his honor."

Ballard aptly concluded last week in commenting on what happened back in his native state: "Mississippi has consistently misunderstood and undervalued its artists."

This writer recalls an episode 46 years ago this month, when the Mississippi House made a similar fool of itself by condemning Greenville Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Hodding Carter, calling him a liar, for an article he wrote for LOOK magazine. The article, which proved to be prescient, warned that the newly-formed white Citizens' Council would be a threat to human rights.

The House had adopted the Carter censure by a vote of 89 to 19. Carter, not one to mince words, responded "by a vote of one to nothing, I hereby resolve that there are 89 liars in the state Legislature."

Ironically, in view of the Ballard resolution rescission, Mississippi legislators have fallen over themselves to commend Elvis Presley, once thought by many as vulgar, who took his own life with an overdose of drugs.

By rights, the entire Mississippi House shouldn't be blamed for the foolish act of pulling back its previous commendation of Ballard. Apparently the chief culprit was Rep. Andrew Ketchings (R-Natchez) who had originally sponsored the commendation resolution.

There was widespread dislike of Ketchings in the House because he had recently ridiculed fellow lawmakers in statements to his hometown newspaper and bragged about having the governor's ear to veto any increase in legislative expense allowances.

Some 37 members of the House voted against the original Ballard resolution when it was adopted (something unusual on commendations) because of their feelings toward Ketchings as the sponsor. For some unexplained reason after adoption of the resolution, Ketchings held it over on a reconsideration motion, ordinarily just a meaningless technicality.

A few days later, however, some wag circulated in the House the lyrics of You Oughtta Know with the naughty word in it. Ketchings freaked out, getting Rules Committee chairman Rep. Tommy Horne (I-Meridian) to have the resolution reconsidered by the House and sent off to a committee pigeonhole.

Before most members could figure out what was happening, and without any floor debate, Mississippi had again shot itself in the foot.

been invested by the county, and has now grown to about $112,000.

The previous Board of Supervisors also grappled with the problem, but abandoned any plans to go forward, claiming they did not have funds to operate a juvenile detention facility, which would require a staff 24-hours a day.

Finding a location for the facility also posed a problem for the previous board, since laws require that juveniles must be "out of sight and sound" of adult prisoners.

Loftus had recommended a pre-fab structure that would hold four male and four female juveniles, and it was estimated to cost about $160,000, if the county could find a location for it.

Peterson said he might have found a way to fund daily operations, but it would require a larger facility than was originally planned.

He said the federal government between $75 and $125 a day to house juveniles awaiting extradition by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"Holding 10 of them, would bring in $1,000 a day—$365,000 a year," said Peterson.

He told supervisors the need to build a juvenile detention center was urgent.

"This is a very serious problem. Juvenile crime is on the rise. We've got to bite the bullet," said Peterson.

Judge Williamson said, in the past, Pearl River County has detained Hancock County juveniles in its center at Poplarville, "but they tore up the place, and they won't take them anymore."

And, Hurt said after he "pleaded and begged" Pearl River agreed to hold some county juveniles for up to 72 hours.

"But, it's got to be an extreme case," said Hurt. "Most of the time, after they're charged and go through the process, I release them to their parents or guardians," he said.

The previous Board of Supervisors had looked at the possibility of housing juveniles in the old Post Office Building on Main Street.

"It would be ideal for us," said Peterson. "It would be in close proximity to the court and close enough that we could run food for them from our jail." He estimated the facility might hold between 25 and 30 juveniles.

The solid yellow brick structure at the corners of Main and Federal was built in 1935, and abandoned as a post office in 1990.

It was bought at public auction, and is now privately owned by Charles (Chuck) Ramsey of Pass Christian, who operates some of his business of Bay Technical Associates, Inc., out of the building.

Supervisors managed to get a key to the facility and toured the premises.

Most agreed the large basement seemed ideal for a holding area for juveniles, after some renovation. There are two side entrances to the building's basement, relatively obscured from Main Street.

Peterson said there seemed to be enough room for the Chancery Court and Clerk's office or the Youth Court on the first floor, and a juror's holding area on the smaller, second floor. But, Judge Williamson said she didn't know whether her offices could be "legally moved" from their present location on Court Street.

Contacted at home, Ramsey said he knew the city or the county might be interested in the property, but he doubted if he could come to purchase terms with either.

Last year, when supervisors were looking at the building for several purposes, F. Lee Bennett, the county's chief property appraiser, put the assessed value of the building at $155,000 for tax purposes. An independent appraisal set the fair market value at $305,000.

"But, Ramsey said he thought 'that was a bit low' and, under current law, the county can't purchase property for more than its appraised value.

Another problem with locating a juvenile facility there would be the building's next-door neighbors, the First Baptist Church.

Pastor Ed Deuschle's secretary said he was out sick with the flu, and was not available for comment.

Wreck claims Bay man

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Jerry J. Gibson, 24, of Bay St. Louis, who was killed early Saturday, March 23, when his car slammed into the west abutment of the Bay St. Louis bridge.

According to the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Gibson, who worked as a bartender at America Live at the Grand Casino in Gulfport, was headed west on his way home around 6:15 a.m. when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel, and lost control of his 1986 Toyota.

His car crossed the median and eastbound lanes, then split in half as it struck the bridge abutment, troopers said. Gibson was not wearing a seat belt, and was ejected from the car.

Harrison County Coroner Gary Hargrove pronounced Gibson dead at the scene, then later ruled his death was accidental.

Gibson, a native of Bay St. Louis, was a graduate of Pearl River High School, Pearl River, La., and an Army veteran.

His death was the 14th fatality recorded in coastal counties this year.

Survivors included his parents, two sons, a brother and two sisters.

INTRODUCING MEMORIAL HOSPITAL'S NICU NEW LEVEL OF SAFETY FOR YOUR NEWBORN

(left) Medical Director and neonatologist Dr. Clinton B. White is proud of the 11-bed NICU which has two isolation beds for babies with viruses or other contagious diseases; 10 neonatal vital sign monitors; and five state-of-the-art ventilators which deliver oxygen in synchrony with a baby's own breathing.

You've had good prenatal care, so you assume you'll have a healthy, full-term baby, but some things, such as the incidence of premature labor, just don't show up in prenatal examinations. Now, because of advanced technology and staffing expertise, a neonatal intensive care unit, known as NICU, can spell survival for seriously ill newborns. It is a vital part of many obstetrical units—so significant, in fact, that many obstetricians won't admit patients to a hospital without one. Until Memorial opened its NICU—the only NICU in a civilian hospital on the Mississippi Coast—babies who required special care had to be transported to Jackson, New Orleans or Mobile. Now, those little ones and their parents can stay close to home, helping the entire family to become actively involved in the care of the infant. Memorial's NICU has a medical staff of three neonatologists and its nurses average eight-ten years' experience. Other health professionals, such as respiratory therapists with neonatal expertise, are also a part of the NICU. Within a few months, Memorial's NICU will have transport capabilities which will mean babies from other Coast hospitals can be easily and safely moved to Memorial for neonatal care.

Dr. Lane Adams to speak at April GCCW meeting

Dr. Lane Adams

Preacher and author Dr. Lane Adams is the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Gulf Coast Christian Women.

Adams, who was born in New Orleans, grew up in Bay St. Louis. He has had a diverse career, having served as a Navy fighter pilot in the Pacific during World War II, for which he was awarded three air medals and the Distinguished Flying Cross, and also having been a nightclub singer for five years.

His career as a minister began in 1957 with his graduation from Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Ga. In 1977, he received his Doctor of Divinity from Belhaven College in Jackson.

For 10 years, he was associate evangelist for the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, and was the featured evangelist, conducting 43 citywide crusades in four countries.

Adams was the founding pastor of Key Biscayne Presbyterian Church in Florida, has pastored churches in Tennessee and Maryland, and has served in leadership in churches and ministries in California, where he now lives.

At present, he is honorary minister-at-large with Scripture Union of Pennsylvania, a publisher of expository adult and children's daily Bible study guides. Adams also is Scripture Union's National Bible Reading chairman.

He is on the advisory boards of several theological institutions, and has authored two books, Come Fly with Me and How Come It's Taking Me So Long to Get Better?

The Gulf Coast Christian Women, whose mission is to bring well-known speakers with a universal Christian gospel message to the Coast for encouragement and inspiration, will meet Wednesday, April 17, at the Broadwater Beach Resort in Biloxi. The doors will open at 11 a.m. Lunch is at 11:30.

Tickets are $12, and are available locally at Bookends Bookstore in Bay St. Louis, Southern Charm Hallmark in Diamondhead, and Hillyer House in Pass Christian. Tickets must be purchased by April 12; none will be available at the door.

NTE workshop

Mississippi University for Women's Office of Continuing Education is offering a "National Teacher Examination (NTE) Preparation Workshop" Saturday, March 30, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Columbus Air Force Base Education Center, Building 916, Rooms 3 and 4.

The workshop offers intensive instruction and practice for the NTE and helpful materials will be provided at no extra cost.

The presenter will provide instruction in: listening, reading, writing, social studies, science, mathematics, literature, fine arts and professional knowledge.

Fee is $20 ($15 for MUW students), and registration is limited to 30 applicants.

To register, send the fee (with checks made payable to MUW) and your name, address, phone number and Social Security number to: MUW Office of Continuing Education, Jennifer Thompson, W-Box 1638, Columbus, MS 39701.

Humane Society concerned about rat poison use

Members of the Hancock County Humane Society are concerned about wildlife being killed by someone placing rat poison in the vicinity of Coleman Avenue, Waveland, said Lolly Backlund, spokesman.

Sunny Taylor, Humane Society cruelty investigator, reports several squirrels, birds and other wildlife have been found dead in the vicinity of the poison.

Residents should use professional exterminators for pests, as poisons can also be fatal for children as well as wildlife, Backlund said.

For further information contact Taylor at 456-0841.

Hancock County REACT

Hancock County REACT Team 4929 recognized two of its youngest members. Katie Estes, 9, and Emily Rasbury, 7, are being recognized by the team for being alert and quickly reporting a woods fire to a senior member who called it in to the Forest Fire Department.

The team's newly-formed Junior Division admitted the girls into the team at their monthly meeting March 14. They reported the fire March 16.

For those wishing to support the new Junior Division and get information on the services Hancock County REACT provides, there will be a bake sale Saturday, March 30 at the Waveland Sav-A-Center from 10 a.m. until.

St. Stanislaus Calendar for sale

A unique and slightly unusual product has hit the streets of Bay St. Louis this past week.

The juniors of Mike Gemelli's pre-calculus class produced a calendar to raise money for the St. Stanislaus' annual Lenten Giving Fund. The proceeds benefit the mission work of the Brothers and people in our community.

However, this calendar is distinctive. The models for each month are faculty members, Brothers and coaches dressed in monthly theme costumes.

"The class thought that a humorous calendar with their favorite faculty members all dressed up in crazy costumes would be a big success," said Gemelli. However, we knew the calendar must be done in good taste. That didn't stop us from presenting our faculty in a way that students have not seen before."

With local photographer Jimmy Loiacano adding his creative touch to each scene, and Bon Temps Roule Costume Shop providing the outfits, the project began a month ago.

The initial photo session had Jim Thrifley, physics teacher at SSC for the past 30 years, dressed as a leprechaun sitting atop a lab table wishing everyone a "Happy St. Patrick's Day."

Bill Jennings became the Easter bunny in his computer science lab as he went "egg-mailing online."

Brother Malcolm, a respected chemistry teacher, got carried away in his Halloween experiment as Merlin the Magician.

When all photos were taken,

Malcolm The Magnificent

a total of 26 faculty members, coaches, and Brothers became the "Men of St. Stanislaus." Students at school were allowed to see several of the photos while the calendar was being printed, and advance orders were taken. Some 500 copies were printed of what is sure to become a collector's item.

"The faculty models had fun taking the pictures. We took turns laughing at each other as each group posed for their picture. Everyone got into the act. Coaches Jay Ladner and Tim Burns took time out from their state playoff preparations to pose, and even persuaded Bro. Joseph and Bro. Pierre to participate," said Gemelli.

Copies of the calendar are on sale at St. Stanislaus for $10. A copy may be purchased by calling the school at 467-9057.

Main Street Methodist to hold Lenten concert

The Main Street United Methodist Church will host a Lenten concert at 6 p.m. Wednesday, April 3 for the enjoyment of the entire community.

Van Carpenter, pastor at Main Street, extends a special invitation to everyone.

The Lenten concert will be under the direction of Mary

Howard, director of music, and will involve all musical groups of Main Street Church.

"It will take us musically, bound together with Scripture, through the life of Christ," Howard said.

Some of the groups who will be performing are the Chancel Choir, Generations Choir, Soundwaves (children handbell and choral choir), Heart Trio, Men's Quartet and solos. In addition, there will be instrumentalists participating on piano, organ, guitar, drums, trumpet and keyboard.

At the conclusion of the concert, there will be a carry-in dinner in the activities center.

Palm Sunday services

St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Diamondhead is observing Palm Sunday with morning prayer at 8 and at a special Eucharist at 10 a.m. with the Palm Sunday Liturgy and the Procession of Palms into the church.

The congregation will do a dramatic reading of the Passion Narrative, followed by Holy Communion.

Holy Week, the last week of Lent, reflects the participation of Christians in the last week of Jesus's life. On Tuesday, evening prayer will be read at 5:30 p.m.

On Wednesday Holy Eucharist Rite II and Anointing for Healing are for 7 p.m. with Emmitt and Wanda Pillaut providing special music.

A soup supper follows the service with a fellowship program.

On Maundy Thursday at 5:30 p.m., Jerry Reshew, lay leader of the Diamondhead Hebrew Congregation, will celebrate a joint Seder Supper for the two congregations in Johnson Hall at St. Thomas.

For Christians, heirs and brothers of the Jews, the Passover and its observance is of intense importance as the dramatic celebration and appropriation of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. It is the link between the Old and the New Covenants, the ancient deliverance of the Jews from bondage in Egypt and the new deliverance of all men from bondage to sin.

Both were accomplished by God, and both are treasured and remembered in a common meal rich in symbolism.

At 7 p.m. parishioners will move to the church for the Last Eucharist, with reading of the Passover Lessons, Psalm and Gospel, Foot Washing, Reservation of the Sacrament and Stripping of the Altar.

Good Friday services include Stations of the Cross at 12:30 and the Good Friday Liturgy at 7 p.m. The people enter the church in silence, and then a parishioner carries in a wooden cross. For those desiring it, Communion from the Reserved Sacrament will close the service.

Saturday at 5:30, Senior Warden Marilyn Palmero will read evening prayer using the Holy Saturday Liturgy.

Easter activities include Holy Eucharist Rite I at 8 a.m., Festival Eucharist with trumpets at 10 a.m., and the children's Easter egg hunt at 11:30.

The church will be open for prayer and meditation during the day.

Extra parking is available behind the church at Diamondhead Clinic.

For details, call 255-9213.

ARTIN' ABOUT

Cotton Blossom Quartet
The Walter Anderson Museum of Art is sponsoring a performance by the Piney Woods Country Life School's Cotton Blossom Quartet Sunday, March 31, at 6:30 p.m.

In 1995, the Cotton Blossom Quartet traveled by presidential invitation as international student ambassadors to West Africa for the Third African-American Summit in Dakar, Senegal. There they performed before several heads of state, 14 African presidents, 30 ambassadors and more than 2,000 American and African business leaders.

The Cotton Blossom Quartet's a capella performance will take place at the museum, 510 Washington Avenue, Ocean Springs.

Admission is $2 for museum members, $5 for non-members. Reservations are required; seating is limited. Call 872-3164 for reservations.

ArtWave
ArtWave, a regional alliance of professional artists, announces its annual juried exhibition May 31-July 15 at the George Ohr Arts and Cultural Center, Biloxi.

The show will include all media, both two-dimensional and three-dimensional. It is open to artists residing in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

Artists wishing to participate are encouraged to obtain a prospectus from Patt Odom, 306 Porter Avenue, Ocean Springs, MS 39564.

East Scenic Drive, Pass Christian, MS 39571. Call (601) 452-4810 for details.

NOMA

The New Orleans Museum of Art has a new fast and easy way to access information about programs and activities at the museum. FYI-1515 is a free 24-hour interactive phone service offering the latest information on events, such as films, lectures and special performances planned at the museum. All callers need is a touch-tone phone.

To connect to the new system, callers may dial FYI (394)-1515 and press 6662 to go straight to NOMA's current listing of events. A pre-recorded message with a brief description as well as dates and times of all upcoming special programs will be played.

Callers also have the option of connecting instantly to NOMA's operator during normal business hours, or having a museum information sheet, which includes a monthly calendar of events, faxed directly to their home or business.

BSLLT memberships

Memberships are available to the Bay St. Louis Little Theater, with several sponsorship levels.

For information, call Beth Benvenutti, membership chairman, 467-1402.

Submissions to Artin' About should be sent to The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. Notices will be edited and published on a space-available basis.

Park Service restricts beach use

"To protect nesting osprey, beach restrictions have been imposed on a mile of shoreline at Horn Island," said Superintendent Jerry Eubanks. This area along the north side of the island, known as the Horseshoe, is marked by signs which indicate the limitations.

Although this stretch of shoreline contains the highest concentration of osprey nests on the island, no hatchlings survived the 1994 season.

The Park Service believes this nesting failure was due to the heavy public use this area receives. Unfortunately, the island osprey seem much more inclined to abandon their nests at the approach of people than mainland osprey.

Camping or picnicking within a few hundred yards of the nests causes the osprey to take flight, allowing the eggs to overheat.

Following 1994's nesting failure, the National Park Service restricted beach use along this one-mile stretch during the osprey nesting period. In 1995, viable chicks were produced in almost every nest.

"This was the first time Gulf Islands National Seashore closed long stretches of beaches to campers and picnickers in order to protect osprey," said Eubanks.

The National Seashore believed that the short time it takes for people to walk by the nests had little effect on the birds, so "beach walkers" were allowed, but campers and picnickers were not.

Based on last year's success, the restrictions this year will be the same. All of the dunes and marshes in this area are closed to the public, and the beaches are closed to camping, picnicking, or uses other than walking along the shoreline.

The restrictions will last until Aug. 1.

"We believe we have been able to protect the natural resources while minimizing the impacts to the visiting public," Eubanks said.

Six Pearl River instructors retiring

Pearl River Community College faculty and staff members were honored recently on campus by the PRCC Development Foundation.

Singled out during the annual faculty-staff appreciation dinner were six retirees with 158 years of combined service to the college.

Auto mechanics instructor Roy Jones began teaching at Pearl River in 1954. He will retire this spring after 42 years of employment.

Elizabeth Alsworth has been teaching world civilization at PRCC for the past 32 years. She has 37 years of teaching experience.

"You will be missed," President Ted Alexander told the retirees. "You all have served this college and its students so well."

Also retiring are English Department Chair Dr. Mary Peddicord, Masonry Instructor Charles Ray Rester, Business Technology Instructor Nancy Regan, and Electronics Technology Instructor Roesse Neves.

Peddicord has 19 years employment with Pearl River, Rester 23 years, Regan 23 years, and Neves 19 years.

"I'm happy for you retirees, but I'm sad for this college and future students who will not have the opportunity to learn from you," Alexander said.

The Development Foundation, which sponsored the event, recognized President Ted Alexander, Garland Stanford and J. W. Sones for 10 years of service to the college.

Stanford heads the transportation department, and Sones is game room supervisor.

Jack Holland, diesel instructor, and Lindsay Loustalot, a nursing instructor, received 15-year pins, and Annie Fowler, Jeanne Dyar and Mark Lott were recognized for 20 years of service.

Fowler works in food service, Dyar is the college's librarian, and Lott teaches carpentry.

Receiving 25-year pins were Connie Holmes, Major Hudson, C. B. McDonald, Norma Hamill and Larry Stanford.

Holmes is chair of the Communications Department, Hudson teaches welding, McDonald is custodial foreman, Hamill is an instructor of biological sciences, and Stanford is public relations director.

Marilyn Houston, manager of the student center, and a current employee of Sodexo Management Services, has been working at the college for 30 years.

Ott Brockman, chair of the Development Foundation, served as master of ceremonies.

Dolores Smith, chair of the Business Department, gave the faculty response and made presentations.

Speakers available

The Governor's Office announced an opportunity for organizations in Hancock County to receive a speaker from the Governor's Office.

In every region of the state, speakers have discussed a wide range of topics.

If your organization is interested in obtaining a guest speaker, please write Mr. S. Ross Aldridge in the Office of the Governor, P.O. Box 139, Jackson, MS 39205, or call (601) 359-3150. If you are interested in a particular speaker or topic, please include that information.

Memberships offered to concert series

Hancock County music lovers will have an opportunity once again to stay home and be entertained by some of the best touring performers around, including a troupe from Ireland.

Coast Community Concerts has unveiled its 1996-97 programming and 48th season headlined by four equally notable programs.

They are The Cassidys, one of Ireland's finest traditional bands; Juilliard-trained John Bayless, America's rising pianist; Ropin' the West, a revue, featuring authentic sets, costumes and instruments.

Also, a highly-touted "White Cliffs of Dover" program featuring Lainie Nelson and Brian Green of All My Children and Broadway's Big River. Their unique show will showcase Life Magazine photos of World War II on a huge rear screen projection.

Limited memberships at $23 for adults and $13 for students are available.

Additional membership information is available from chairman Margaret McDougall at 432-8656.

Ole Miss Black Alumni Reunion

The Honorable Reuben V. Anderson of Jackson, former Supreme Court Justice, and Willie E. Gary of Stuart, Fla., leading trial attorney, will be the featured speakers at the Black Alumni Reunion March 29 through April 1 at The University of Mississippi.

The Ole Miss Alumni Association is sponsoring the reunion, which includes more than 20 events. Justice Anderson will present the keynote address Friday evening, and Gary will discuss news-making issues, such as affirmative action and women in law, during a symposium on Saturday.

The university's annual Awards of Distinction convocation, in which outstanding black leaders with Mississippi backgrounds are recognized, will be held at the School of Education auditorium at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday. A reception will follow.

Reunion participants may register and pick up event packets from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday, March 29, in the Alumni Center lobby. Registration will continue Saturday, March 30 for late arrivals.

The reunion will include something for everyone—from golf and aerobics to art exhibits and information conferences. Live entertainment by the Memphis Ice Breakers, a concert by the Ole Miss Gospel Choir, a Greek show, sorority and fraternity receptions and celebrations, an alumni-student mixer, and a Sunday morning service with Rev. Leroy Wadlington at the Second Baptist Church of Oxford.

A crowd is anticipated, so those interested should pre-register as soon as possible. For information on the full schedule and registration, call Bonita Terry-Malone at (601) 232-7375.

8A-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1996

Franchise agreement

Key West Inns awards franchise agreement

Key West Inns Inc. has granted Naples-based Key Hospitality Inc. the exclusive franchise territory rights to the southern half of Florida. Key Hospitality plans to develop and manage a minimum of 20 Key West Inns over the next five years. The expansion of the franchise into the Florida market will complement the development of Key West Inns currently underway in neighboring states.

Bruce W. C. Ellis and Thomas M. Shields formed Key Hospitality to capitalize on current and long-term investment opportunities in the upper economy segment of the lodging industry. Ellis' and Shields' combined backgrounds represent over 40 years of real estate development, construction, management and advisory services.

A substantial portion of this experience includes the ownership, management and consultancy of hotels and resorts. Ellis holds an MBA from M.I.T.'s Sloan School of Management. Shields holds an economics degree from Notre Dame University.

Key West Inns Inc. is a Birmingham, Ala.-based franchising and development company founded in 1989. Key West Inns are upper-economy inns that utilize Key West Victorian architecture to create an inviting small inn design.

There are presently eight inns in operation in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, and three more under construction. In addition to Key Hospitality's plans in southern Florida, Key West Inns' president, Cory Jackson Jr., expects to develop a total of eight new inns this year.

Job prospects strong for computer professionals

A survey of 98 major employers on the Mississippi Gulf Coast shows job prospects for computer professionals are healthy and strong.

The survey, conducted by Dr. Diane Miller, assistant professor of management information systems at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast, also provides information for academic curriculum planners interested in producing well-prepared graduates.

Miller's survey asked information systems managers in Mississippi Gulf Coast industry groups, ranging from hospitality to refining, what skill preferences they want. The survey was sent to 98 firms that report more than $20 million in annual business, or have more than 100 employees and compared the results with similar prior surveys to indicate attitudinal change.

The survey indicates employers still value "ability to work with others" as the top attribute they seeking new employees, which continues the trend from prior studies cited in the survey report, Miller said.

However, those polled gave stronger emphasis to more technical skills, downplayed in some earlier studies, she said. That may indicate the need for MIS schools, like USMGC, to review an academic curriculum, she said.

"The balance of skills included in a management information systems curriculum should meet the needs of stakeholder groups—students, faculty and employers," Miller said.

The survey "... found that growing demand exists for specialists in database, end-user support, networking, fourth-generation languages and integrative management skills. There is evidence that specific technical skills are in greater actual demand than stakeholders initially acknowledge, and that there is an apparent expectations gap within and among stakeholder groups."

Specific findings indicate:

- Of those polled, 73 percent said they seek outside professionals to "manage data communication for their firms." The survey also showed 63 percent of those polled "employ end-user support professionals."
- Microcomputers perform most of the computing work for the firms polled.

Follow-up interviews with recent graduates and employers indicated the job market for MIS and computer science graduates on the Mississippi Gulf Coast is strong. These interviews also further confirmed, however, that technical skills are becoming more desirable for computer-related professional jobs.

Miller found employment patterns for computer professionals on the Gulf Coast are consistent with other parts of the United States. She also determined "there is little local use of computers for decision support, which may provide a growth area for progressive organizations and for professionals trained in strategic uses of computer-based systems."

These findings present a challenge to those in an academic environment who desire to provide adequate preparation for graduates entering professional computer fields, Miller said.

"Curriculum balance implies an appropriate mix of business, technical and interpersonal skills," Miller said. "It also demands attention to the interplay of skills necessary to the integrated systems in large organizations and global industries."

Real estate exams held

Real estate license examinations were held March 11 in Jackson for persons desiring to enter the field of real estate sales, rentals and other related real estate activities.

Nineteen individuals applied for the brokers license. Seventy-nine individuals applied for the salesperson's license.

Fifty-six percent of those sitting for the brokers examination successfully completed the requirements and will now become licensed real estate brokers.

Seventy six percent of those sitting for the salespersons examination successfully completed the requirements and will now be awarded the salespersons license.

The examination consists of 100 questions prepared by the American College Testing Services (ACT) for real estate license law officials across the United States and Canada.

Applicants are questioned concerning the Mississippi real estate law and rules and regulations governing their activities in that vocation.

There are approximately 4,726 salespersons, 4,203 brokers and 1,355 real estate companies and corporations licensed by the Mississippi Real Estate Commission.

Commissioner Lenny Sawyer, 5th Congressional District, Gulfport, announced the following who have been issued licenses in District II.

Brokers: Judy Ishee McCrary and Janine Williams.

Salespersons: Dee Cichon, Connie Derbigny, Hope Dewitt, Ursula Flame Dykes, Ashley Frisby, Jennifer Gewin, Zelma Gollott, Peggy Hesse, Joseph Johnson, Patrick Johnston, Tom Lineberger, Vincent Link and Diann Loper.

Also, Edward Malpass, Gretchen Martin, Celeste M. Maugh, Melanie Moore, Ethel Moran, Michael Nicolosi, Ernestine Pugh, Brenda Ray, Eduardo Salinas, Billy Skinner, Johnnie Smith, Gary Williams and Ron Zyracki.

ty about Department of Defense funding priorities that affected A&T in the second half of fiscal year 1996, ending this month, has begun to clear."

He continued, "In addition, we have achieved a significant presence in the interactive multimedia training outsourcing market of the telecommunications industry, and we see substantial opportunity for expanded market penetration."

Bennett noted that at Dec. 31, 1995, Analysis & Technology Inc. reported book value per common share of $16.05. This compares to book value per share of $15.63 as of Dec. 31, 1994. He added that contractual backlog at Feb. 29, 1996 was $461 million.

Working with clients, Analysis & Technology, Inc. provides technology-based solutions in engineering services, information technologies and interactive multimedia training systems.

Anderson appointed to board

Roy Anderson III of Gulfport has been named to the Mississippi Economic Council's board of directors.

Anderson will serve a one-year term and will take office May 1. He received the appointment from W. C. Shoemaker of Kosciusko, the incoming MEC chairman. MEC is the state's largest business and professional organization. He is president and CEO of Roy Anderson Corporation in Gulfport.

The Mississippi Economic Council is "the voice of business" and is now in its 47th year of service to the people of Mississippi. Anderson will help implement a Program of Work and set policy directions for the Council.

MEC sponsors the STAR Student and Teacher awards and promotes private business education through its American Enterprise Center. MEC addresses governmental problems and is structured to make rapid and aggressive responses, day to day, issue by issue.

Some of the issues MEC is now addressing include creation of a statewide uniform juvenile court system, appointment of Supreme and Appellate judges, reduction in the size of government, and tort reform.

Shoemaker said the strength of the Council and its impact on Mississippi are a direct result of leaders like Anderson.

"As I reached the beginning of the off-ramp a gentlemen from New Orleans stopped. He offered me a ride home, and I told him I only needed a ride to a telephone so I could call my husband."

"My husband (Conny Howard) did not believe my story. He came, and we made the circle to Highway 603 and back to my car, he realized just how lucky I was to still be alive."

Howard said they ordered a wrecker to take her vehicle, which was a 1995 Chevy Lumina LS. It was purchased new last September from Turan-Foley in Gulfport. They did not feel it was safe to leave the vehicle on the interstate.

Conny Howard then took his wife back to the emergency room at HMC for observation. She said she did not have any visible injuries, but her left ear kept ringing all day long.

At the dealership on Tuesday after an initial inspection of her vehicle, the Howards were told all electrical and computers were burned out. The gears in the transmission were all reported as being melted together.

Two gaskets were loose on the drivers side door, a hole was though the door frame and a section of the door frame about six inches by two inches had been blown from the vehicle by the lightning bolt.

Howard said, "The jolt was so hard I cannot believe no glasses were broken. Somebody had to been watching over me."

The Howards are now awaiting the insurance adjuster to make his report.

Plan

property and adjoining Cedar Point area.

Scafide had hardly changed his mind on the issue Tuesday, saying if the city ignores its promise regarding undeveloped, unzoned annexed land, it is inviting a $5 million to $6 million lawsuit.

Council President Tad Black quizzed Scafide on the exact property lines of a tract in the area at issue that was bought by Gaming Corporation of America several years ago. Black also wants to know the current ownership of that parcel, now the subject of pending litigation in Chancery Court.

While council acknowledges that it signed pre-annexation agreements concerning casino development on two separate tracts, they stressed Tuesday that they never promised land owners they could put related commercial development on a 12-acre Cedar Point tract.

However, owners of that tract agreed to annexation after Mayor Eddie Favre said in a letter that council members had "indicated approval" of commercial use of the tract. City officials say there's no record of the matter coming up during a city council meeting.

Favre was not at the meeting

Tuesday. He was to return Thursday from a tourism promotion meeting in Mexico.

With the issue of the annexed land dominated the meeting, council members considered a number of changes proposed by individual members.

Council member James Thriffley asked that most of the proposed medium-to-high density land use be replaced with single family residential uses on the map; that Ulman Street, from Second Street to Highway 90 be shown as commercial; and that the third and fourth blocks of Main Street be shown as a low density residential area.

His push for additional single family residential land uses in town was appealing to other council members. Also gaining apparent favor was Black's proposal to erase a proposed high tech campus depicted on a tract on St. Charles at the Old Spanish Trail.

Repeatedly, Scafide and city planner Les Fillingame sought to convince council that the comprehensive plan and the land use map are not zoning documents. "Future land use policy is trying to envision what might happen," said Fillingame.

But "you're trying to address a zoning decision," Scafide said during the Cedar Point discussion. "This is just a plan."

Scafide said the plan must be adopted before the city can impose any zoning on the areas annexed in 1992. But that will be the only zoning action that will follow adoption of the plan, said Scafide. The rest of the land use map will remain as a guide to future zoning decisions, but it will not impact existing zoning or uses.

Rutherford said Wednesday council has spent better than $150,000 on consultant fees and staff time in the past five years, with no results. "It's time council gets off dead center and gets to a decision. I'm exasperated with the whole thing..."

He said the cost of consultants and countless hours of consideration and debate by staffers and the Planning and Zoning Commission are an unnecessary expense if council only ignores the professional advice it gets. "I don't think that's fair to my taxpayers," said Rutherford.

And, he said council's objections to multi-family and commercial land use amounts to "a no-growth pattern that Bay St. Louis can't afford."

He said while he favors adoption of an historic preservation district to protect the "quaintness" of the city, there's still room to allow multi-family residential and commercial growth in appropriate parts of town.

Clubs

clubs from cropping up.

The proposal will come up for consideration at the regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, scheduled for Tuesday, April 2.

According to Jones, the proposed ordinance closely tracks a law already in force in Gulfport, and upheld in the courts.

Specifically, the ordinance would allow female dancers to show cleavage, but not the lower portion of the female breast. It would also ban "G-strings, T-backs and thongs, and neither females or males could show their entire buttock."

"Male genitals in a discernable turgid state, even if completely and opaquely covered, or even if simulated," would also be prohibited.

Persons and employees of commercial establishments where liquor is served would be banned from:

-Exposing to the public view "specific anatomical areas" or any simulation thereof; or

-Engaging in any "special sexual activities" or simulation thereof; or

-Showing on the premises any graphic representation, including pictures or projection of film which depict "specified anatomical areas of specified sexual activities"; and

-Performing straddle dances.

"Straddle dance," also known as "lap dance" or "face dance" is defined as the use by an employee of any part of his or her body to touch the genital areas of a customer or another employee for the purpose of soliciting "a tip, donation, gratuity or anything of value."

"It shall also be a 'straddle dance' regardless of whether the touch or touching is direct or through a medium," according to the proposed ordinance.

"The straddling of the legs of an employee over any part of the body of a person, other than another employee, is also banned, "regardless whether there is a touch or touching."

Any employee who commits such prohibited acts would be subjected to a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment in the Harrison County Jail for a term not to exceed 90 days or both for each offense.

Under McDonald's direction, Jones said he also planned to introduce a lengthy, 22-page document that would subject police and fire department personnel, and some public works department employees to pre-employment drug screening.

The proposed ordinance would also subject the same workers to drug screening following work-related accidents.

Jones said another provision might be included in the proposal that would provide for random drug testing of city employees, but the cost for those tests might prove to be too much of a financial burden on the city.

Port

removal of all three) for a year and a half." Port and Harbor Executive Director Hal Walters said. "Because of legalities, it has taken a long time."

Walters said the tug boat has been in its current state of submersion for nearly six years. It could not be removed previously, he said, because the owners could not be located.

Walters said the tug has not yet hindered ship traffic but has caused headaches for barge traffic. He said because of the tug's location, barges can only be ferried one at a time in the port's canals.

"It does hinder us for being able to fleet barges," Walters said. "It's a real problem for us right now. Also, we plan to extend the canal once the boat is removed."

The abandoned crane rests not far from the tug, also near the entrance to the ship channel. A tenant at Port Bienville sold the crane some time back, Walters said, but the new owner has never come to pick it up.

Port and Harbor Commission attorney Robert Genin has filed the proper motions so both obstructions can be removed in a timely fashion, P&H President Dave McDonald said.

"(Both) are impeding barge traffic," McDonald said. "The tugboat is worth nothing but scrap."

"I don't know about the crane."

The barge, sunken in another part of the park, was once used as a dock. It was being transported out of Port Bienville several years ago, when it broke away and sank.

Commissioners have expressed concern about removal of that barge because there is some fear it could sink again during towing, and block the entrance to the ship channel.

P&H Commissioner Curtis Colson said he was approached by an individual who promised to remove all three obstructions at no cost to the Commission if he would be allowed to sell them for scrap. Commissioners voiced no objection, but by law the process had to go out for bid.

Licensing

Until recently, Bay St. Louis didn't have a licensing board of its own. Instead, local officials awarded licenses to people who successfully completed a licensing test in Gulfport.

City Council recently appointed its own licensing board, with members drawn from various trade skill areas. The board has developed and approved a series of tests based on the Southern Standard Building Code.

Carrigee said while the Bay St. Louis test won't be anymore difficult than than Gulfport's -- but it will be different. All the material in the local exam has been covered in seminars Carrigee's office has held for tradesmen, he said, and included in handouts he offered to attendees.

"If you know what you're doing, you're going to pass," he said.

Carrigee said city officials will offer testing on the final Thursday of each month at City Hall Annex. The fee is $100, including the cost of a year-long license.

Bay St. Louis-Waveland spring pilgrimage today

BAY ST. LOUIS-WAVELAND
Thursday, March 28, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Pilgrimage Chairman: Mrs. Nick Hyman

The trolleys will run between the Garden Center and morning tour locations 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Afternoon tour 1-4 p.m. from the Waveland public parking area, between Coleman and Terrace.

BAY WAVELAND GARDEN CENTER

114 Leonhard Ave., Bay St. Louis, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. This much loved home of Bay-Waveland Garden Club is on the National Historic Register. The Club was founded in 1938. Flower show 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Maps and brochures are available.

HOME OF JACK AND MELINDA RICHARD

1320 Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis. This unique Acadian cottage was built in the 1800s on the banks of the Jourdan River and has been moved twice - in 1906 to Harrison Court and in the 1920s to its present location. The Richards have completely restored the cottage and have filled it with many fine antiques and whimsical collectibles. A just completed addition offers a view of the gardens. Mrs. Richard, founder of "Gather Ye Rosebuds", designed the beautiful rose garden with more than 100 rose bushes. Mr. Richard designed and installed the various water gardens and plantings.

HOME OF JIM AND TERI WYLY

216 North Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis. The Wyly home faces the Bay on property once the site of the Tulane Hotel. Destroyed by fire, the hotel was replaced circa 1930 by a red tiled stucco house in Spanish Mission style. Just completed construction has added a wing of four bedrooms, three baths, a music room, and a recreational room. Filled with antiques and family pieces, its spacious floor plan lends itself to gracious entertaining and week-end guests.

KATE LOBRANO HOUSE

108 Cue Street, Bay St. Louis. Now the home of the Hancock County Historical Society. This turn of the century cottage is in the process of renovation. The home of Kate Maynard Lobrano, given by her heirs in 1988 to be the permanent home of the Historical Society, is a two-bay cottage with an undercut front and side gallery of vertical barge board construction. It features French doors at the entrance and along the gallery. The house is also a small museum. Docents will be available during the tour.

HOME OF DR. AND MRS. SWAN WARD

982 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis. Designed by Dr. Ward to resemble a "shotgun style" cottage that was torn down. It was built by local architect Carl Heitzman and decorated with the assistance of interior designer Marcia Artigues. The naturally terraced lot with its numerous large oak trees provides natural habitat for many native and migrating birds. The ever evolving gardens are designed to blend with the native flora as well as compliment the home.

WAVELAND CITY HALL

301 Coleman Ave., Waveland. Waveland City Hall was originally built as a school between 1906 and 1908 by Ferdinand Raymond. The school had a bell on top of a cupola when it was first erected. After hurricane "Camille" in 1969, both the bell and the cupola were lost. In 1930, a brick school was erected and the city government took over the building. In 1991, the upstairs was renovated. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

HOME OF BRYON AND YVONNE GRIFFITH

127 Sarah's Lane, Waveland. Maison de Anges, built in 1993, is a custom recreation of old Southern elegance. Designed by a local doll maker and her husband, the home blends the best of Acadian and Southern plantation architectures. Maison de Anges overlooks the Mississippi Sound and is framed by a cluster of old live oaks that is rumored to have frequently been a campsite in the Civil War. Features include old style high ceilings, rooms divided by unique stained glass transoms and a blend of old world hardwood, marble, and imported tile floorings. The owner's artistic talents are featured throughout the home's window coverings, floral arrangements, and her large collection of French porcelain reproduction dolls. The grounds are accented with flower and rose gardens and a New Orleans style courtyard, pool and gazebo surrounded by angel sculptures.

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. JAMES J. CRANE

426 South Beach Blvd., Waveland. A two-story wooden frame house enclosed by a white picket fence, the house dates to the late 1880's. It has been altered only slightly by owners and storms. The original front porch, which is featured in "Along the Gulf," was destroyed by the 1947 hurricane and the owners plan to replace it.

GARDENS OF CHAPPY AND STARR CHAPMAN

706 South Beach Blvd., Waveland. Several acres, canopied by centuries old live oak, magnolia, and pecan trees. A walkway through the beautiful rose garden surrounding a french statue circa 1920 of Bacchus, leads to the arbor covered in confederate jasmine. A reflecting pond with a life size statue of Venus is surrounded by trees and shrubs native to this region. The Garden of the Four Seasons with its many statues, contains a winding walkway lined with crepe myrtles.

GARDENS OF MR. RICHARD GRAYSON

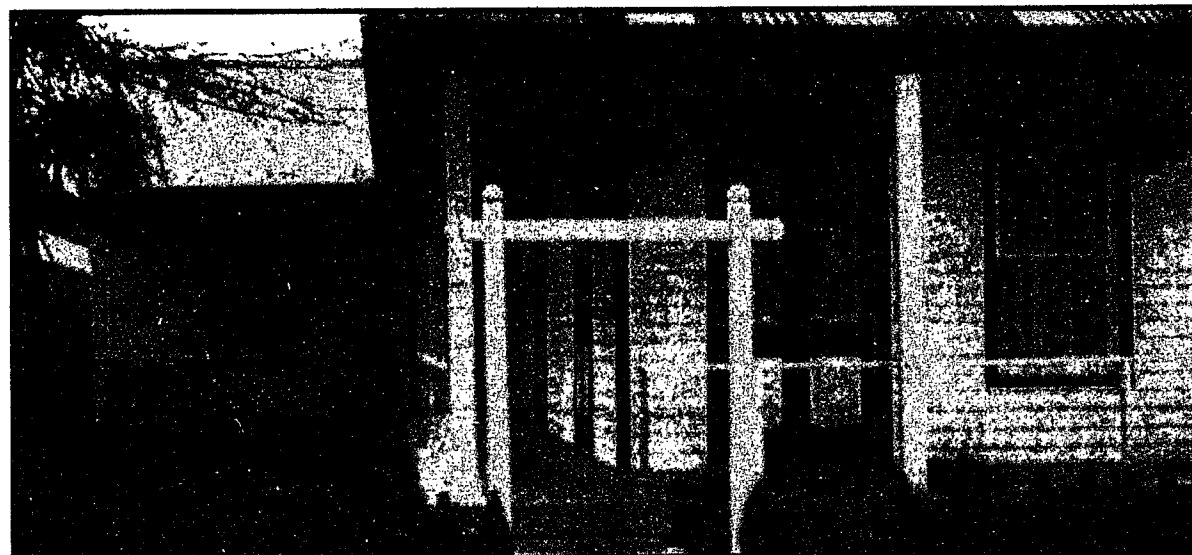

712 South Beach Blvd., Waveland. This many-acred property, along with the adjoining Chapman's property, were originally owned by Maximillian Bourgeois, the first mayor of Waveland. Dr. Walter Hava, a prominent horticulturist, in the 1930's planted the original gardens. The current owner has worked many years in the development and restoration of this lovely area. Ancient trees and azaleas, 60-foot camellias and sasanquas, combine to make this a one of a kind experience. A sleepy pond filled with water lily and outlined with native irises, day lilies, create a symphony of beauty.

SPORTS

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1996

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Kentucky-UMass will be undoubtedly the marquee matchup of this weekend's Final Four, but for intrigue, look to Syracuse-Mississippi State.

Both are the darlings of the NCAA's annual big dance. Experts predicted early curfews for both, but the Bulldogs and Orangemen have two-stepped their way to the Meadowlands in New Jersey. And come Monday, the team left standing will have an opportunity to complete an improbable dream of winning the national championship.

But this is much more than a battle of Cinderellas. It's North vs. South, culture vs. agriculture, the aloofness of upstate New York vs. Southern hospitality, grits vs. kielbasa, "Y'all vs. you guys."

MSU carries the weight of an entire state on its collective back, being the first team from Mississippi to advance to the NCAA hoops centerstage. History will record the Bulldogs earned the berth with a 73-63 victory over Cincinnati in a backyard brawl in Lexington.

Make no mistake, however, the foundation for MSU's surprising rise to prominence came exactly two weeks earlier. It was then the Bulldogs stunned not only Kentucky, but basketball gurus nationwide, with an easy 84-73 victory over the Wildcats in the SEC championship game.

The victory in the Louisiana Superdome finally convinced the underachieving Bulldogs that, indeed, they were worthy of their preseason press clippings. For most of the season, the 'Dogs appeared too concerned about style, rather than substance. A disappointing SEC regular season was the result.

But sometime between the regular season finale and the start of the SEC tournament, Mississippi State glanced in the mirror and saw a team running on reputation, rather than dedication and emotion.

The turning point was the SEC title game. The Bulldogs jumped on Kentucky early, and never allowed the Wildcats to threaten. This came at a time when the Wildcats were in the throes of a string of blowouts that had many crowning KU national champions and coronating coach Rick Pitino.

The victory proved to the Bulldogs that they could play with the best. Dontae Jones and Erick Dampier have played leading roles for MSU all year, but March has marked the debut of Darryl Wilson and Russell Walters from role players to headline acts.

Wilson's surprising three-point accuracy buried UConn in the regional semifinals. But equally as important were the bruising picks set by Walters, allowing Wilson to roam the perimeter.

MSU has gone from a Jones-Dempier duet to a Bulldog quartet. If either Jones or Dempier is firing blanks, MSU coach Richard Williams is comfortable he still has a loaded arsenal.

The Bulldogs have also elevated their defensive intensity to a new level. Cincinnati is normally the intimidator, but the Bearcats were shocked an opponent would have the audacity, and tenacity, to butt heads with them for 40 minutes. State beat UC at its own game of intimidation.

Kentucky has the glitz, but MSU brings the best defense to New Jersey. Their blue-collar toughness will be the difference against Syracuse, another amazing story.

The Orangemen finished fourth in the Big East and were considered an afterthought to the tournament. But to this reporter, Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim is one of the nation's best. His Orangemen are always Big East contenders, although Boeheim seldom has the premiere talent of a Georgetown or UConn.

'Dogs to finals

Syracuse features the inside-outside punch of John Wallace and Jason Cipolla. But the Orangemen's 2-3 defense, so effective against second-seeded Kansas, will have to be revamped against MSU.

Wilson has proven he can single-handedly carry the Bulldogs when necessary. And if the 'Cuse places too much emphasis on stopping Wilson, Jones and Dampier are waiting.

MSU will get past Syracuse to set up an all-SEC final in a replay of the conference title game. It will be then that MSU's road to glory hits a dead end.

Kentucky is itching for one more shot at the Bulldogs. It is no doubt a theme Wildcat coach Rick Pitino has already stressed to his player. And it is that motivation for a rematch that will carry KU past an outstanding UMass team.

Although Kentucky may have lost the conference title, the Wildcats will win the final that counts the most.

Special Olympic Games this Saturday at Stennis

The 14th John C. Stennis Area III Special Olympics Track and Field Competition will be Saturday, March 30, 9:30 a.m. at Stennis Space Center.

Events include wheelchair races, assisted walks, shot put, standing long jump, long jump, softball throw, 50-, 100-dash, 100-, 200-meter walk and tennis ball throw.

Entertainment includes Catalina Pools Sky Diving Team, Picayune "Pride of the Tide" Drill Team, Pearl River High School Drill Team, Desporte's School of Dance, Kountry Kloggers, Coastal Vibrations and Pine Woods Kloggers.

The Hancock County Lawmen's Association will hold a relay run Saturday, March 30, beginning at the Hancock County Courthouse.

Offices participating are Bay St. Louis Police Department, Waveland Police Department, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and SSI Security at Stennis Space Center.

The torch will be relayed from one agency to the other with the final hand-off to the designated athlete at Stennis Space Center.

Rocks split in tourney, Chiniche gets winning hit

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws split a doubleheader in the recent Biloxi Invitational Tournament taking both the 5-A Gulfport Admirals and the Biloxi Indians into extra innings.

The Rocks were at their best offensively scoring 11 runs off 17 hits, eight for extra bases. Eric Knight opened the game with a double off the left field wall. Casey Heitzmann followed with a double of his own narrowly missing a homerun.

Chris Davis went 3 for 4 with a double and an RBI. Casey Swanson also went 3 for 4 with one RBI. Jeremy Penton was credited with a single, a double and one RBI.

Sophomore Jesse Williams hit two doubles and drove in two runs while sophomore Jimmy Smith hit one double for one RBI.

Stephen Knight and David Manasco caught the Admirals sleeping for one stolen base each.

Jason Chiniche drove in the winning run off a triple down the right field line. Chiniche said, "I just stayed closed and hit an outside pitch hard."

Casey Swanson pitched six innings for the Rock-A-Chaws for no decision striking out four batters and giving up six runs. Jimmy Smith entered the game with the score tied and pitched two innings to pick up the win.

In their game against the Biloxi Indians the Rock-A-Chaws scored seven runs off nine hits. David Manasco, Casey Swanson and Jason Chiniche each had one hit while Manasco stole two bases to bring his season total to seven. Jeremy Penton went 2 for 4 with a double and two RBIs.

With two outs in the top of the 7th, senior Correy Gex hit a homerun off a 3 and 1 fastball to send the game into extra innings.

Gex said, "I picked a spot and decided if it was there I was going to hit it." Gex pitched five innings for no decision striking out two batters.

Despite a good effort by the relief pitching the Biloxi Indians went on to win the game 8 to 7 in eight innings.

Rock-A-Chaw Coach Stace McRaney commented on the Rocks' effort: "We hit the ball as hard as I've seen since I've been at St. Stanislaus. Everything came together. The kids showed guts today against some tough competition."

PRCC auditions

Pearl River Community College color guard and drum major auditions will be Saturday, March 30 in the PRCC band hall.

Drum major auditions are set for 9 a.m. Those interested in flags and rifles will meet at 10 a.m. Full tuition scholarships are available for individuals. For information, call 601-795-1180.

Ladner & Lawyer lead county's charge

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The 1996 All-Gulf Coast team in high school basketball was announced on Sunday, March 24. The Hancock County area had four players and a coach honored on the team. SSC head coach Jay Ladner was named the boys Coach of the Year. Ladner, in his fifth season with SSC, guided his Rock-a-chaws to the state tournament for the first time since 1945. The Rocks finished the season at 29-10 and the number three team from the South in Class 4A. The Rocks won the Division 7 Class 4A championship.

Terry Lawyer was a repeat selection from last year and played center for the Rock-a-chaws this past season. Lawyer has recently been named to the Mississippi High School All-Star squad on the South team. The senior Rock averaged 23.4 points, 13.2 rebounds, and 2.8 blocks per game. Lawyer signed with the Mississippi State Bulldogs in November.

Jered Breaux, a senior forward for the Hancock Hawks, averaged 19.5 points, 7.5 rebounds, 3.0 steals, and 3.0 assists per game. Breaux was named to the Division 7 Class 4A first team for the second consecutive year.

Eddie Riley, a senior point guard for the Pass Christian Pirates, averaged 16.8 points, 7.8 rebounds, 4.6 assists, and 3.8 steals per game.

On the girls side of the ball, Valerie Christmas of Bay High was named to the team. The senior forward averaged 13.5 points and 9.0 rebounds per game for the Tigers. She helped guide her team to the Division 7 Class 4A title and a 20th ranking in the final state poll. Christmas is expected to sign with the Lady Wildcats of Pearl River Community College.

Tigers put on Hit-a-thon

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Bay High Tigers played two games on Saturday, March 23. The Tigers banged out two wins against St. Martin Episcopal and East Jefferson High School.

The Tigers, with a record of 9-6, defeated St. Martin 12-2 in Metairie and then downed East Jefferson in game two 9-2.

Wali Shabazz continued his hitting dominance with three hits including two doubles and three RBI for the Tigers against St. Martin.

Others with multiple hits were Jonathan Favre, Luke Weems, Jon Farve, and Daniel Murphy all with two hits. Favre, Luke Weems, Casey Weems, and Farve all had a double for the Tigers. C. Weems, Favre, and Farve all had two RBI while L. Weems and Murphy had one RBI in the first game.

Ray Ramsey picked up the win on the mound for the Tigers in the first game. Ramsey ran his record to 3-0 with the win.

In game one, the Tigers scored a run in the second inning to tie the game at 1-1 and then exploded for three runs in the third and fourth innings. Bay High added four more runs in the fifth inning to end the rout.

In game two, Shabazz tallied the win against East Jefferson to run his record to 4-3 on the season and also garnered three hits and one RBI in the game.

The Tigers scored all their runs in the fourth and fifth innings to seal the win.

Jonathan Favre sparked the offense with four hits, including a double, and three RBI against East Jefferson. C. Weems and Ramsey also tallied three hits for the Tigers while L. Weems had two hits. C. Weems and Ramsey each added two RBI and Trey Schultz added one RBI for the Tigers in the game.

Rocks squeak by Rebels

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw baseball team picked up a big win over visiting Harrison Central on March 19. The Rocks downed the Red Rebels 8-7.

Eric Knight, Jimmy Smith, Dennis Knight, and Casey Heitzmann spread out six hits to limit the Harrison Central attack.

Smith tallied the win for the Rocks.

Jeremy Penton had a triple and three RBI to lead the offensive attack for the Rocks while Dennis Knight had two hits. Correy Gex had a single, one RBI, and a stolen base for SSC.

The Rocks record improved to 7-6 with the win.

exploding for four runs in the sixth inning.

Correy Gex and David Manasco each had two hits for the Rocks with Gex tallying a double. Gex, Manasco, Eric Knight, Dennis Knight, and Chris Davis all tallied an RBI for SSC.

Dennis Knight took the win on the mound for the Rocks running his record to 2-0.

The Rocks now stand at 8-7 on the season and 2-3 in district play.

P.C.I. News

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Pass Christian Ladies Golf Association held a low gross low net format on March 12.

In the first flight, the low gross went to Pat Ellis while there was a tie between Lori Jacobsen and Marsha Heitkamp for the low net honor.

The second flight saw Pat Bartman win the low gross and Julie Hudson the low net.

The third flight had Ellie D'Antoni win the low gross and Georgia Price win the low net.

In the fourth flight, Heather Thomas won the low gross top spot and Dolores Bullitt the low net honor.

The nine hole winners were Velma Guest with the low gross and Claire Loup the low net spot.

On March 19 the Pass Christian Ladies Golf Association held a Luck of the Irish format with Julie Hudson placing first and Perk Landry and Sara Schexnaydre tying for second place.

Malee Hearin took third while Iva mae McDonald and Shirley Hyde placed fourth and fifth, respectively.

In nine hole competition, Millie Shea took first place while Marilyn Wild placed second.

Wildcats beat Hinds

Pearl River Community College swept the Hinds Eagles, but lost a doubleheader to the Jones Bobcats this past week in South Division baseball action.

The Wildcats beat Hinds 5-4 and 9-8 to even their record at 9-9 overall and 3-3 in the division. Pearl River dipped back under .500 Saturday by losing 10-1 and 3-2 to Jones.

In the first Hinds game, Chgward Williams had two singles and Cliff Dedeaux a double while Rick Whatman picked up the complete game pitching victory.

In the second contest Bryan Pierce aided his own cause with a single and double. Michael Draughn picked up a pair of singles, and Kevin Davis slapped a home run.

In Ellisville Saturday against Jones, Jason Fonseca took the loss in the first game, and Brian Krammer recorded the loss in the second contest.

The Wildcats are 9-11 overall and 3-5 in the South.

Pearl River was scheduled to play Southwest in Summit Wednesday and entertain Col-Lin in Poplarville at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 20.

Next week the Wildcats will host East Mississippi on Tuesday, April 2 and East Central on Friday, April 5.
